Integrative Health Management Program for Cancer

You have cancer...

You've heard of cancer and most likely there are people in your family who have faced cancer.

And then from your last doctor's visit, he said three words —
"You have cancer ..."

— that came as a shock. Immediately your mind began to race:
"What about my family? What about my job? Why me?"
So many whys, hows, and whats; and unexplained emotions.

What is cancer?

To truly understand cancer, you have to first know that cancer cannot exist in isolation — it exists and grows in the environment that we know as the body. Everything we do to the body can have a positive or negative effect on the growth of cancer. Cancer creates its own micro-environment, and the increasingly altered environment feeds back cancer cells.

What is cancer?

Cancer cells are intelligent. It is a proven fact that they can rapidly recruit healthy cells to create large masses that we know as tumors. It is also known now that obliterating large tumor masses can and usually does leave behind cancer stem cells that carry within them the entire information needed to replicate tumors. The resulting tumors tend to be more aggressive and resistant to therapy.

That is why to optimize and manage the HEALTH of cancer patients, we have to look past killing the cancer cell. We must be able to modify the environment that provides the “fertile soil” for its growth so that cancer finds it increasingly difficult to set root. We must re-energize the immune system so that it does not remain an ineffective, silent bystander while cancer grows. The body has all the information it needs to beat cancer — it has been doing this task from the day each of us was born. Somewhere along the way, our body’s defenses got overwhelmed. That is why knowing how to restore the body’s ability to defend itself becomes a central theme in holistic cancer medicine.

The Functional Medicine Approach in Managing the HEALTH of A Cancer Patient.

- Functional Medicine addresses the underlying causes of disease, using a systems-oriented approach and engaging both patient and practitioner in a therapeutic partnership. It is an evolution in the practice of medicine that better addresses the healthcare needs of the 21st century.
- By shifting the traditional disease-centered focus of medical practice to a more patient-centered approach, Functional Medicine addresses the whole person, not just an isolated set of symptoms.
- Functional Medicine practitioners spend time with their patients, listening to their histories and looking at the interactions among genetic, environmental, and lifestyle factors that can influence long-term health and complex, chronic disease. In this way, Functional Medicine supports the unique expression of health and vitality for each individual.
- Functional Medicine is a personalized, systems-oriented model that empowers patients and practitioners to achieve the highest expression of health by working in collaboration to address the underlying causes of disease.
- Functional Medicine offers a powerful new operating system and clinical model for assessment, health management, and prevention of chronic disease to replace the outdated and ineffective acute-care models carried forward from the 20th century.
- Functional Medicine incorporates the latest in genetic science, systems biology, and understanding of how environmental and lifestyle factors influence the emergence and progression of disease.
- Functional Medicine enables physicians and other health professionals to practice proactive, predictive, personalized medicine and empowers patients to take an active role in their own health.

GENOMICS & METABOLIC TESTING

We have a wide array of functional testing including personalized cancer genetic tests to help our patients and their doctors to come up with better patient outcomes through precision medicine. Most commonly tests as follows:

1. Comprehensive Nutrient Evaluation
2. Comprehensive Stool Analysis
3. Onconomics Test - a chemosensitivity test of natural substances, as well as anti-cancer drugs and targeted therapies
4. Circulating Tumor Cells Monitoring tests

Go2Health's Integrative Health Management Approach to Cancer Patients:

We teach and train a person with cancer how to manage their health after their diagnosis.

We identify the root causes as to why a patient developed cancer.

We teach and train a cancer patient on how to make his body as a system to be the least hospitable for cancer cells to recur or for the tumor to regrow.

How do we make their body least hospitable for cancer cells to grow?

By using food, exercise, sleep, nature, meditation, breathing, yoga as medicine through the collaborative effort of different integrative and functional medicine practitioners and lifestyle medicine professionals such as Functional medicine physicians, nutritionist, culinary medicine Chef, Medical acupuncturist, meditation coaches, yoga teachers and fitness professionals.

Go2Health Methodology - The 3 E Methodology:

EXPLAIN
